

Richard Roth ~

"The people we encounter in life are like books. The adage is true, you should never judge a book by its cover. Some of the books we encounter in life are short reads, others graphic novels. Some books you read once and you can remember the detail for life, some are so good you reread them to feel the magic it created in your soul once again. A good book, a really good book will make you laugh, love, cry, frustrate, provide knowledge and inspire you in ways you never imagined. Unfortunately, unlike books, when the person is no longer on this earth, it is like someone took the book away and all we can do is talk and remember the book in all its glory, sharing with others the wonders of what we read. Rich was New York to the soul, never one to not speak his mind, full of passion and love. A train on the tracks that went full speed slowing down to let you on as everyone was welcome aboard, and if you were lucky enough, you were able to catch a ride. He practiced what he preached, fearless, full of passion and had no problem going all in, ever. The essence of Chiropractic and Rich were synonymous, on his wall posted for everyone to see was " The Big Idea" along with many inspirational and philosophical quotes, his office "Simply Chiropractic" was just as it sounds, he could adjust a spine with a skill only comparable to Beethoven running the keys. He loved people, animals and life in general. He leaves behind many friends, his beloved cat Socrates, his loyal companion/dog Norman, His Sister Julie, and nieces and nephews that loved him dearly. As was the passing of Jim Morrison and Jimi Hendrix, the shock of those who knew him will last forever, as will the memories he created for us. If you never had the chance to meet Richard Roth, you missed a really, really good book."

~ Eric Luttrell